

Heidi Lowe Bio- Jeweler

Heidi Lowe comes from a family of artists, where she was surrounded by quality art supplies, and being creative was encouraged. Heidi started her first jewelry company at age 13 where she created earrings and sold them to shops on Rehoboth Avenue. When Heidi made her first silver ring in high school, she knew she would study metals and jewelry in college. Heidi attended the Maine College of Art and then earned a master's degree in Metals and Jewelry from the State University of NY - New Paltz.

Heidi opened her namesake jewelry gallery, Heidi Lowe Gallery, in 2006 where she exhibits her one-of-a-kind jewels as well the works of 25 artists from around the country. Through the years she has been striving to create a meaningful body of work that merges the handmade with wearable comfort and beauty. While the world was on pause the Liana Collection emerged. The liana vine signified the strength and endurance found within each of us, a spirit to be celebrated and encouraged.

When Heidi's not making jewelry, she's focused on having fun with family and friends. She's always looking forward to her next travel plans where she can recharge and allow her creative mind space. Artistic and personal growth are integral to how Heidi navigates the world, spending her downtime reading, drawing, and learning.